How much does it cost to make cable trays

Overview

Discover the 2026 cost breakdown for cable trays compared to conduit and wire mesh. Compare material prices, labor savings, and performance to find your best value.

Key Takeaways

The cost to fabricate cable trays ranges from approximately $2 to $25 per meter, depending on material, type, size, and surface finish, with labor, equipment, and shipping adding to the total cost.

Material Costs

Cable tray fabrication costs are heavily influenced by the material used: Galvanized Steel: Most common, balances durability and cost. Stainless Steel: High corrosion resistance, more expensive, used in hygienic or coastal environments. Aluminum: Lightweight and rust-proof, moderately expensive, reduces support structure costs.

Plastic/

Polymer: Budget-friendly, suitable for light loads, not ideal for heavy industrial cables. Surface coatings also affect cost: Hot-Dip Galvanized (HDG): Durable for outdoor use, higher upfront cost. Powder Coating: Protects against wear, available in multiple colors.

Pre-

Galvanized (PG): Cheaper but less durable in corrosive environments.

Tray Type

Ladder Trays: Strong, support heavy cables, higher fabrication cost.

Wire Mesh/

Perforated Trays: Cheaper, suitable for lighter cables, faster to install.

Labor and Fabrication Costs

Labor is a significant factor in fabrication: Skilled workers are required for cutting, welding, and finishing. Equipment depreciation and energy consumption (welding, cutting, surface finishing) contribute to overall cost. Installation is faster than conduit systems, potentially saving 40–60% of total project labor costs.

Manufacturing Plant Considerations

For large-scale production, setting up a metal cable tray manufacturing plant involves: Capital investment in machinery, plant infrastructure, and utilities. Operating expenses dominated by raw material consumption (steel coils account for 70–80% of OpEx),. Economies of scale can reduce per-unit fabrication costs, with gross profit margins typically 25–35% under normal operating conditions.

Cost-

Saving Strategies

Optimize tray size and routing to reduce material waste and labor. Use modular systems to speed installation. Combine materials strategically (e.g., aluminum trays with steel supports) to reduce costs without compromising durability.

SummaryPer-meter fabrication cost: $2–$25 depending on material, type, and finish. Additional costs: Labor, equipment depreciation, energy, and shipping. Project savings: Proper design, material selection, and modular systems can reduce total costs by 15–22%.

By considering material choice, tray type, labor, and manufacturing scale, you can estimate the total cost of fabricating cable trays for your project accurately.
