The switch s optical port does not support 100Mbps

Overview

If the SFP port does not support 100Mbps signaling at the MAC/PHY level, the module will not establish a link even if physically inserted. For this reason, confirming port specifications is the most critical step before selecting a 100BASE TX Copper SFP module.) Use in the SFP ports of the 2920 Series Switches. The 2930F Switch Series models with 1G/10G SFP+ ports added support for this J9054C/J9054D 100FX transceiver. The. I need a copper 100mbps connection for a legacy system, and according to the optics compatibility matrix, it appears to be supported, but not sure if it will work at 100mbps. com/?
