Key Takeaways

KVM switches are currently available in Uganda through online marketplaces like Jiji and Jumia, as well as local computer shops in Kampala.

Online Options

Jiji Uganda offers a variety of KVM switches, including the D-Link KVM-440 8-port PS/2 and USB combo switch, Tesmart 120M HDMI KVM extenders, and other multi-port HDMI switches. Prices start from around USh 100,000, with options ranging from budget to premium models. Jumia Uganda provides a selection of KVM switches with cash on delivery, secure payment, and free returns, making it convenient to shop online.

Local Computer Shops

Computers Shop Kampala (Reeincapes) stocks KVM switches for centralized control of multiple servers or workstations. These include refurbished models suitable for IT administration, software testing, and real-time monitoring of multiple computers. Pavan Computers and Mercury Computers Limited also offer networking and peripheral equipment, including KVM switches, though their listings focus more on networking gear and may require contacting the store for specific KVM models.

Key Considerations

Port Count: Choose a KVM switch based on the number of computers you need to control (e.g., 2-port, 4-port, 8-port). Connection Type: Options include USB, PS/2, HDMI, or combo models. New vs Refurbished: Refurbished units are available at lower prices but may have limited warranty.

Delivery & Pickup: Online marketplaces like Jiji and Jumia offer delivery across Uganda, while local shops allow in-person pickup. For the best selection and pricing, it is recommended to compare listings on Jiji and Jumia and contact local shops in Kampala for availability and specific models.
